20 Arabs Are Killed In Jerusalem Hotel Explosion

JERUSALEM, Monday, Jan. 5 (P)—The Semiramis Hotel in Jerusalem, believed to be a transit headquarters for Arab leaders, was wrecked early today by a heavy explosion which police said had killed at least 20 Arabs and wounded 12 others.

Six more persons were believed buried alive in the debris.

Police said the blast was touched off by members of the Jewish underground, who yesterday were blamed for two explosions which shook a crowded public square in the Arab port of Jaffa, demolishing another Arab headquarters and killing at least 14 persons. Ninety-eight were wounded, 20 of them seriously.

The Semiramis Hotel is a three-story stone structure where the Jews have claimed Arab leaders stayed on visits to Palestine.

Heavy gunfire was heard in the vicinity of the hotel after the double explosion, indicating that Arab guards had engaged the attackers.

The scene after the explosion was reminiscent of the bombing of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem on the night of July 22, 1946, when nearly 100 persons—including many Britons—were killed by a bomb planted by Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground group.

Today's bombing was the worst since the King David incident.

Casualty Estimates Differ

Arab sources differed with police in their estimate of the casualties in the Jaffa bombings, placing the number of dead at 30. Many persons were believed to have been buried under falling masonry, and wind and rain, sweeping in from the Mediterranean, hampered rescue work.

The blasts smashed the Jaffa headquarters of the Arab National Committee and damaged a police station, Barclay's bank and some 15 houses. They were believed to have been set by the Stern Gang, Jewish extremist underground group.

Rain Soaks Out Arab Siege

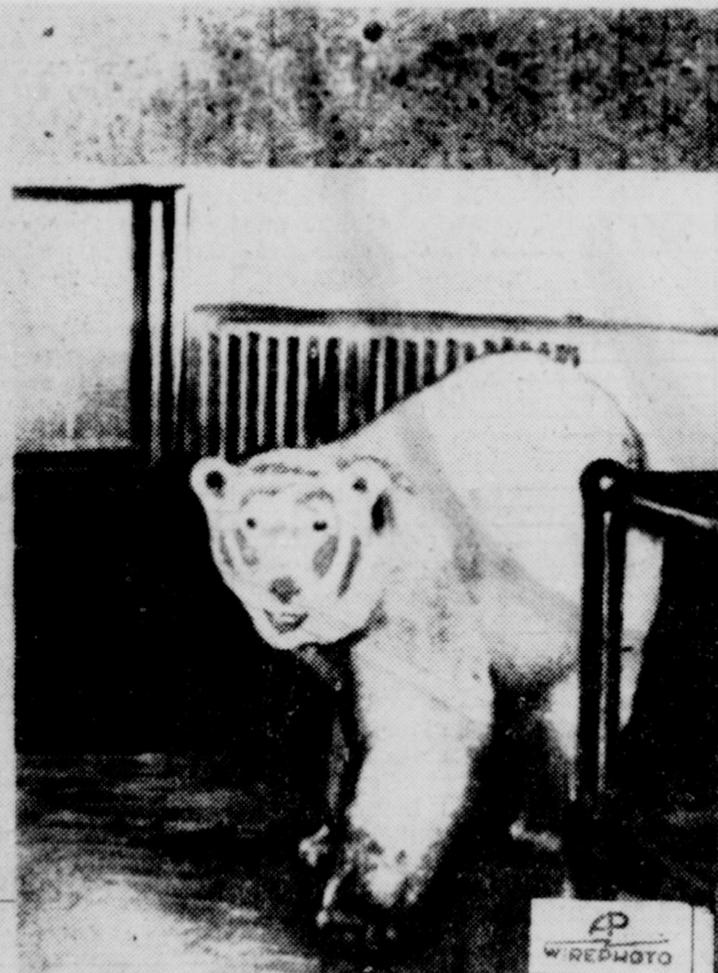

Meanwhile, rains soaked out a bitter two-day Arab siege of the Jewish quarter within the old walled city of Jerusalem, but the lull seemed likely to be brief.

The 14 fatalities in the Jaffa explosions all were presumed to be Arabs. In addition, two other Arabs and two Jews were killed elsewhere in Palestine, and four Jews died of wounds received in recent days.

Today's death toll raises the total to 553 persons killed in Arab-Jewish violence since the United Nations Assembly voted November 29 to partition the Holy Land.

The explosions took place in Jaffa.

Fatal Shooting
Climaxes Food
Price Argument

CAMDEN, Ark., Jan. 4 (P)—A young man said to have emphasized his objections to food prices with fists and a shotgun was shot to death at a grocery store near Camden last night.

Ouachita County Sheriff W. P. Smead said the victim was Silas Bowman, Jr., 22-year-old father of two daughters, and that the owner of the grocery, T. Jones, was held on a charge of manslaughter.

The sheriff said Jones gave this account of the shooting:

Bowman came to Jones' and the two men argued over the price of a small coconut and other groceries. A fist fight followed heated words. Bowman went to his home and returned with a shotgun.

Smead quoted Jones as saying he shot Bowman with a .22 rifle as the latter approached the store with the shotgun.

Lengthy Trieste
Deadlock Likely

TRIESTE, Jan. 4 (P)—The United States is pouring food into the British-American zone of the Free Territory of Trieste at the rate of $20,000,000 worth a year, and there is little prospect of a settlement to meet the need for American help.

The deadline set by the United Nations Security Council for Italy and Yugoslavia to agree on a new one for governor of the territory will be reached tomorrow. No one here expects such agreement within the near future.

"I don't believe that even the present world situation requires us to the scrap the Constitution of the United States," Eaton told reporters.

The return of Congress Tuesday throws work on the Marshall plan into high gear. The great four-year undertaking was laid before the lawmakers by President Truman as the special session closed last month.

It would provide $17,000,000,000 to advance European self help in non-Communist countries.

Hearings Are Planned

Eaton's committee will meet Wednesday to plan hearings. On the Senate side, Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.) of the Foreign Relations Committee, will open hearings the same day.

Talking to reporters, Eaton showed no inclination to go along with the idea of Speaker Martin that maybe Congress first should pass a bill to set up the machinery for managing the Marshall plan, then

Battle Lines
Drawn On Aid,
Taxes, Prices

Lawmakers Stream
Back Into Capital

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (P)—Battle lines were drawn today between President Truman and the Republican-controlled Congress on three towering issues around which fortunes of the major political parties could flourish or fade in this presidential election year.

Streaming back into Washington for the reconvening of the 80th Congress on Tuesday, Republicans and Democrats began lining up immediately on:

1. Tax cutting—maybe to the extent of $5,600,000,000.

2. Foreign aid, under the Marshall Plan.

3. The high cost of living. Each party is blaming the other for the size of the housewife's grocery bill.

Rep. Knutson, of Minnesota, House Republican tax manager, led the attack from the GOP phalanx today with a declaration that "instead of fitting tax reduction to foreign relief we should fit such relief into tax reduction—and this will probably be done."

He announced the House Ways and Means Committee will be called immediately to act upon his $5,600,000 tax-slashing measures which he calls "veto proof." Speaker Martin (R-Mass.), without mentioning its size, already has announced a tax cut will be at the top of the House calendar and will be voted by that body before January ends.

"Wishful Thinking"

"All talk of holding up consideration of tax reduction until a foreign relief program is disposed of is based on wishful thinking," Knutson told a reporter.

Over the weekend, White House confidants said the President will make it clear this week he will oppose any big overall slash in revenues.

The President will present his state of the union message on Wednesday. He will follow this on Friday with an economic message and on January 12 with an expected peace-time record budget—probably running close to $40,000,000,000.

The President is expected to recommend:

1. Swift approval of the Marshall Plan proposal for a four-year $17,000,000,000 economic recovery program for 16 non-Communist European nations.

2. Quick action on his proposals, turned down by the 1947 extra session, for selective, standby price-wage and rationing powers, to supplement the GOP "voluntary action" anti-inflation act that he has called "feble" and "pitifully inadequate" to deal with the high cost of living.

3. No great overall tax reduction while the nation's income is at the highest level in history. Some lawmakers believe he may hold the door open for some relief for low income persons.

4. Universal military training—an issue that many lawmakers had just as soon skip in an election year.

5. A program for national health insurance.

6. Broadening of Social Security coverage.

7. A new federal housing program.

8. An increase in the minimum wage level.

9. A long range farm program, to supplement the wartime price-

O'Daniel Asks Anderson's
Ouster For Recommending
Revival Of Meat Rationing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (P)—Sen. O'Daniel (D-Tex) called on housewives, "all cattlemen and livestock growers" today to join him in a demand that Secretary of Agriculture Anderson be ousted from the Cabinet for his views on meat rationing.

O'Daniel interpreted a Friday night statement by Anderson as meaning that the Secretary has asked that rationing of meat be set up again in view of shortages and high prices.

Anderson had predicted that Americans will be asking for meat rationing by spring.

O'Daniel got out a statement saying that rationing "is a communistic, totalitarian measure" and added:

"It will take the steaks out of the grocery stores and put them in the swanky restaurants and hotels where bloated bureaucrats can feed on them three times a day out of their fat, tax money expense accounts."

Anderson said last night that he had assigned Charles F. Brannan, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, to "look up what our bill-ies would be if a meat rationing program should be assigned to this department, and how should we go about it."

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) plans to introduce shortly legislation which would authorize the Agriculture Department to draw up plans for meat rationing on a hold-in-reserve basis.

To put them into effect—if that is found necessary—Flanders would have another bill for action by Congress. He explained that this course would leave up to Congress, rather than the administration, the final decision on whether to ration meat.

Sen. Morse (R-Ore) meanwhile resumed his opposition to meat rationing, in a radio talk. He said:

"The farmer is not going to look with any kindness upon any proposal that seeks to set himself off by his wife, subject him to controls, but leaves the manufacturer whose products he has to use, not subject to controls."

Morse did not list them but did say "I think that we are going to have rationing of short supply materials."

Anderson added that "I don't want to go back to the wartime controls of OPA."

ST. ETIENNE, France, Jan. 4 (P)—Charles De Gaulle called today for a scrapping of the present French trade unions system in favor of an association of management and labor "incorporated into the state."

He said the sleigh was sheared from the tractor connection and hurled high into the air.

"I heard the crash and knew it was too late."

He said the sleigh was sheared off the tractor connection and hurled high into the air.

His son, John, 13, was riding on the back of the sleigh and was the only child to catch sight of the train in time to leap from the crossing.

He told trainmen:

"I was riding on the back seat of the sleigh—and jumped just in time."

It was terrifying."

John's sister, Janice Wyse, 7, suffered two fractured legs and arms, and was in a serious condition.

John related that he had asked his father to take the "kids on the sleigh ride" after the elder Wyse had refused to let the youth drive the tractor because—ironically—"it was too dangerous."

The children killed included:

Jean Paul Osborne, 12, her sister, Marjorie, 10, daughters of Lyle Osborne.

Trainmen Give First Aid

Gayle Grieser, 13, her brother, twin sister, Charlene; Patricia, 8, and Sharon, 6, all daughters of Lawrence Grieser.

Dawn Grieser, 13, her brother, Martin, 11, and sisters, Arlene, 10; and Janice, 4. (Distant relatives of the other Grieser family.)

Shirley Grieser, 9, daughter of the Lawrence Griesers, suffered a leg fracture and possible internal injuries.

Trainmen of the NYC passenger train brought the train to a halt, and offered first aid to the survivors.

The bodies of the dead were taken to undertakers establishments in nearby Wauseon.

Archbold is approximately 40 miles southwest of Toledo.

Dr. H. M. Warner, coroner, of Fulton County, said he will delay the inquest until later in the week because the farmer who drove the tractor which was towing the ill-fated sleigh is suffering from shock.

Dan Shearer, engineer of the train, reported the tractor cleared the tracks and that the locomotive rammed the middle of the sleigh.

The crossing—on a county gravel road—had no lights or bell signals.

AFL And CIO Mobilize For Political Drive Aimed At Repeal Of Labor Act

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (P)—The AFL and CIO have started mobilizing to carry out the most ambitious political program in United States union history, aimed at repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and defeat of office holders they blame for high prices.

The 30-man administrative committee of the AFL's newly-created Labor's Education and Political League will meet here Tuesday to pick a director and an assistant director, and to decide how to finance its most extensive political drive.

In most previous elections the AFL has refused to leap in as an organization on one side or the other, but this year AFL President William Green indicates it may even get behind a presidential candidate.

What stirred the AFL up was enactment of the Taft-Hartley Labor-Management Relations Act last summer. It spent $1,500,000

Constitutionality
Of Herter's Plan

Fatal Shooting
Climaxes Food
Price Argument

CAMDEN, Ark., Jan. 4 (AP)—A young man said to have emphasized his objections to food prices with fists and a shotgun was shot to death at a grocery store near Camden last night.

Ouachita County Sheriff W. P. Smead said the victim was Silas Bowman, Jr., 22-year-old father of two daughters, and that the owner of the grocery, T. Jones, was held on a charge of manslaughter.

The sheriff said Jones gave this account of the shooting:

Smead quoted Jones as saying he shot Bowman with a .22 rifle as the latter approached the store with the shotgun.

Thus Eaton edged out of line with the House leadership on the Herter bill whose general principles are supported by Speaker Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana and Sen. Taft (R-OH).

Compromise On Aid
Management Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (AP)—Chairman Eaton (R-NJ) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, today questioned the constitutionality of proposals by fellow Republicans for handling the Marshall European recovery plan—and he called President Truman's own provisions inadequate.

The vital management feature of the program, he reasoned, probably will emerge as a compromise between the GOP administrative agency idea and the President's methods which include single administrator with broad powers.

Thus Eaton edged out of line with the House leadership on the Herter bill whose general principles are supported by Speaker Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana and Sen. Taft (R-OH).

Overlapping Authority

Eaton said an independent administrative agency might invade the field of foreign affairs reserved for the President by the Constitution. This idea is advanced in the plan which was put forth by a special House committee headed by Rep. Herter (R-Mass.) after a tour of Europe last fall.

"I don't believe that even the present world situation requires us to the scrap the Constitution of the United States," Eaton told reporters.

The British-American sources here believe that only a general easing of the differences between the Western Nations and Russia will end the Trieste deadlock. All factors were digging in for an expected lengthy military occupation.

The British and Americans have 10,000 occupation troops—5,000 each—in their zone, which includes the City of Trieste and some surrounding area. The Yugoslavs have 5,000 troops in their occupation zone in the free territory.

The Yugoslavs, in the last few days, erected permanent barriers across a couple of road blocks between Yugoslavia and the British-American zone. This occurred after Yugoslav guards fired at several persons who tried to run the blocks.

The United Nations Security Council, unable to agree on a nominee for governor, approved a United States suggestion that Italy and Yugoslavia be asked to submit a joint candidate by January 5. Conversations have been going on in Rome between Yugoslav and Italian officials, with no indication of agreement.

Woman Is Overcome By Leaking Stove

Overcome by gas fumes from a leaking stove in the bath room, Mrs. Beulah Campbell, 747 Kelly Boulevard was taken to Allegany Hospital, last night by City Police where her condition was later described as "not serious."

Police said the woman's daughter became alarmed and called a neighbor, Calvin Yeider, who lives in another apartment but uses the bathroom. Yeider told police he broke the door in and found Mrs. Campbell unconscious.

The victim told the police she became faint while combing her hair and then did not remember further events.

According to police a small gas stove was still burning in the room when Mrs. Campbell was removed. They said numerous jets were not burning and several jets were not escaped through these jets and the woman was overcome.

In Jerusalem, lights went out for the second time this week in the Katmon and Talfit residential sections, and telephone lines were cut to the strife-wracked old city. There was no explanation.

Approximately 1,500 Jews were cut off by the Arabs in the ancient and sacred section of Jerusalem. From positions at the eight gates and atop the walls of the old city the Arabs brought the Jewish quarter under their guns. One Arab roadblock was broken open by police using tear gas.

Flashes of tommygun fire and grenade explosions pierced the darkness. Rain-drenched Jewish and Arab fighters sought each other out in the twisting, narrow streets.

In the bitter Jerusalem fighting Scottish infantrymen and police moved into the walled city—a pivot of Middle East history for 3,000 years—in an attempt to pry the battling Jews and Arabs apart.

The battle had raged for two days near shrines sacred to Christians, Jews and Arabs. There was fear that it might touch off the threatened full-scale war between Jews and Arabs for Palestine.

Andresen Is Challenged To Substantiate Charge

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 (UPI)—Sen.

Lucas (D-Ill.) today challenged Rep. Andresen (R-Minn.) to substantiate his charge that 200 federal employees in Chicago were investigated last fall in a commodities speculation inquiry not made public.

Declaring that Andresen, chairman of a House committee investigating grain speculation, had put "every federal employee in Chicago under a cloud" of suspicion, Lucas added in a statement:

"He has told us that his information comes from the usual 'very reliable source.' In view of the reliability of his source, I trust he will not hesitate to state immediately just who it was who gave him his information, and if necessary summon under subpoena before his special House committee any witnesses who can substantiate the charges he has made."

"As Cumberland is largely an industrial city, we should encourage and promote the location of new and diversified industries as well as the building of homes, so that this community may enjoy its share of full employment and prosperity.

"Definite and effective steps should be taken to make Cumberland a cleaner and a healthier city, and, with this in mind I favor securing experienced and competent personnel with which to carry out the provisions of the anti-smoke ordinance recently adopted.

"I will endeavor to avoid favoring special groups and interests, and will seek to find a common ground on which various factions, or groups with divergent interests or opinions, may meet, laying aside their differences to pull together to make Cumberland one of the best communities in our country.

"As the campaign progresses, I shall be glad to answer any questions which may have a bearing upon matters which will be acted upon during the next two years. I am particularly interested in the study of the proposed new charter to be made by a specially appointed committee and not only think this project should be encouraged but hope its work will be followed up to a resultful conclusion."

Approximately 1,500 Jews were cut off by the Arabs in the ancient and sacred section of Jerusalem. From positions at the eight gates and atop the walls of the old city the Arabs brought the Jewish quarter under their guns. One Arab roadblock was broken open by police using tear gas.

Flashes of tommygun fire and grenade explosions pierced the darkness. Rain-drenched Jewish and Arab fighters sought each other out in the twisting, narrow streets.

The battle had raged for two days near shrines sacred to Christians, Jews and Arabs. There was fear that it might touch off the threatening full-scale war between Jews and Arabs for Palestine.

Henry Wallace Offers Himself For President

When Henry Wallace tossed his independent hat into the 1948 ring few political observers were surprised. What must have surprised many who had not heard his recent speeches was the note of impassioned sincerity in the voice that came over the air. Most Americans regard Wallace as a well-meaning but impractical dreamer. He is, in fact, a radical of the familiar religiose type. How far his fierce attack on the Truman Administration is due to thoughtless conviction and how far to resentment at his having been dropped from the cabinet, probably Wallace himself cannot say.

One thing is certain: The third-party movement is a major blow to Harry Truman's prospects in 1948. Henry Wallace will never get within hailing distance of the White House. Probably he will poll fewer than the 4,822,000 votes which Bob LaFollette received in 1924 when he carried only his home state of Wisconsin. But Wallace can and doubtless will play hob with Democratic hopes in several key states.

In the vital state of New York Wallace can count on the greater part of the American Labor Party, which apparently holds the balance of power there. His peculiar ideas have a lot of adherents in California, vigorously marshalled by Robert Kenney. Thanks to the backing of the Progressive Citizens of America, he can make a showing in the industrial states of Illinois and Michigan and in Washington. Many Farmer-Laborites will go along with him in the plain states. Even if he cannot get his name on the ballot in all of these states, he can deprive the Democrats of essential votes. Wallace has made the decision which recently prompted 51 of the 56 political correspondents in Washington to predict a Republican victory in 1948.

The effect of the Wallace movement on the G.O.P. convention may be only less striking. With Truman's prospects dimmed, the Republican delegates will not be inclined to nominate a popular idol whose Realism is an unknown quantity. They will rather be encouraged to choose one of their own, a man who has proved his understanding of and loyalty to Republican principles.

Hopefully for the Republicans, and dismally for the Democrats, the Wallace announcement has cleared the air.

One nice thing about this period of the year is that there are other tunes on the radio besides "Jingle Bells."

Aid Comes At Last To Our Navajo Indian Tribe

To a growing number of Americans it had seemed a mockery that, while public interest was turned and public assistance was dispatched to distressed peoples abroad, acute distress and public indifference were the portion of our own Navajos. It is good that Congress has just passed, and the President has signed, a bill authorizing a $2,000,000 appropriation for the "immediate relief" of this people and their Hopi neighbors.

The Navajos live on a tract of 25,000 square miles lying in Southeastern Utah, Northeastern Arizona and Northwestern New Mexico. About 61,000 strong, they are among the most numerous, and until recently have been the fastest growing, of our Indian nations. Unlike the other Indians they are still nomads—sheep herders—their collateral industries being chiefly the weaving of fine blankets and the making of silver-and-turquoise ornaments for the tourist trade.

Their handicap is that theirs is a desert domain, and increase of population has caught up and surpassed their means of support. According to a survey conducted by the Department of the Interior, their reservation can properly support only 35,000 of its 61,000 inhabitants. The Navajo diet averages 900 calories a day, where the official ration in the British-American zone of occupied Europe is 1,500 calories. More than a third of the families have incomes below the $750 "bare subsistence" level set for their way of life and location. Ninety per cent do not know English. Infant mortality is terribly high, and so is the tuberculosis rate.

There is nothing wrong with the Navajos except their desert habitat. They are proud people, with plenty of history behind them, and with the high bearing of savages as pictured by Fenimore Cooper. They warrant the active good will of all Americans. The Society of Friends—always the quickest on the trigger at anything except shooting—is sending them clothing for the Winter. Multitudes of others, as soon as a way is opened, would like to follow suit and do something.

A scientist predicts that earth will change its shape. Considering the shape it's in, any change should be for the better.

We Have Entered Upon The Wolf Month

Once we called January the Woodchopper Month, which is what, for obvious reasons, it ought to be. The Romans called it the Janitor Month, and assigned its deity Janus, the two-faced god, he of opening and shutting doors, which is the janitor's immemorial function. We come forward some centuries from the Roman prime to the time of the Saxons, who called it the Wolf Month. This, says an ancient quarto, was "because people were wont always in that month to be more in danger to be devoured of wolves than in any season else of the year, for that, through the extremity of cold and snow, those ravenous creatures could not find beasts sufficient to feed upon."

Our guess is that the ingenious chronicler got it all wrong. In January there is a wolf-whine in the wind at your door, and that seems to us a sufficient explanation. The picture is of any household in the siege of winter. Outside, the winds may howl, but within the dwelling there is light and warmth, domestic felicities and social cheer. Now comes the indoor month. The family hearth glows brightest when the winds shriek over your chimney top and the snow piles outside.

If Taft ever points out that the sun rises in the East, Truman can be depended upon to maintain that it rises in the West if at all.

Disaster Programs

Is your community prepared to handle a disaster? War damage is not the only possibility as the Texas City explosion, for example, could be duplicated in many areas. So could the Cocoanut Grove and LaSalle hotel fires. These are not pleasant thoughts but every wide-awake citizen should consider such possibilities—not in a fearful manner but for the purpose of preparedness. Some cities already have facilities to cope with catastrophes along this line but the majority have no plans and would have to rely upon their ingenuity should a disaster occur.

Problems of this nature are best handled when the community forms a program utilizing various governmental departments and trained volunteers. The civilian defense corps of the last war is a good illustration of what can be done. If this organization could be kept alive, an excellent nucleus would exist and a reserve CCD might be useful as the officers reserve corps of the army and navy and the National Guard.

Any campaign must incorporate the services of the fire, police, and building departments and public works and utilities as well as the board of health and the Red Cross. All too often it takes a minor calamity to bring these needs to the front. In Chicago, on May 2, 1947, a corner building in a heavily congested business district blew up. All that was left was a large hole where the structure had once stood. There was considerable damage to the surrounding property but loss of life was negligible because it was Sunday and all the offices and stores were closed. Had this occurred on a week day, thousands of workers would have been killed or at least severely injured. The city's departments, which maintain continuous service, went into prompt action but considerable time elapsed before its representatives from offices normally closed on Sunday could be notified. The fire department is now making plans to rectify the situation so that disasters in the future can be handled efficiently.

Obtaining hospitalization for casualties is an important part of any disaster program. It is here that one of the first stumbling blocks is found because, while institutions of this type never close their doors, they are already overcrowded. Most hospitals have plans for an additional wing and others desire to build new and modern structures. But all are delayed by lack of money and inflated prices. It is paradoxical to read about the astronomical sums being spent by our government on the one hand, and the struggle that is going on in many communities to raise a few thousand dollars for the benefit of our own people. For safety's sake, more hospital facilities are needed today than ever before.

The type of food that an animal can tolerate depends largely upon the nature of his digestive tract. Some species use both plant and animal nutriment. Others require meat; still others do not. You might ask your friend he lions and tigers remain so strong. As you know, they are meat eaters. Plant foods eaten by herbivorous animals are not strictly carbohydrate as you say. They contain proteins also.

Fabia Chavez, one of our leading local fisticuffs and a nationally ranking lightweight, has just lost his suit to keep the Hollywood Cinema Stadium from televising these fights.

If he'd won the suit it might have led to the elimination of sporting events from television screens altogether, putting quite a primp in the progress of the new art and completely ruining the cocktail bar business.

Actually, watching television in a bar isn't so great. Usually the guy closest to the set has been there a long time and by the time he gets the picture tuned right for his vision it's out of focus for the more sober customers farther back.

Chavez has now taken to making it hard for the operators of the television camera by staying out of the center of the ring as much as possible. If this catches on, I'm staying away from football games. I can see a couple of sulking pro teams playing a game up and down the bleachers, and my spine.

You can't blame the kids from being upset, though, since they figure that television is keeping cash customers away and cutting down on their take home pay. . . . but I think the whole thing will be ironed out as soon as the television industry gets enough sets around to justify advertising.

Then the losing fighter can have a little sign embroidered across his trunks saying. . . . "Take me to the hospital in a comely ambulance from Monahan's merry mortuary."

And the winner can step to the center of the ring and say, "I'm glad I won so quickly, because I can get home to my big bowl of puffed rice sooner."

President De Nicola Wants Italy To Have Chance To Make Democracy Live; Thanks American People For Help; Cassino Example of Enterprise

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

ROME, Jan. 4 — (By wireless) — Nine days ago, the first president of the Italian republic signed the new Italian constitution, by which the trappings of Fascism and the folderol of monarchy were finally and officially buried. Ettore De Nicola, the man who became president under this new constitution, is a lawyer who had to leave parliament after Mussolini came into power and who has been living quietly in Naples ever since.

I called on President De Nicola two days after the new constitution was signed. You can easily understand why the people of Italy revere him. He has direct, smiling eyes and he talks with such clarity and eloquence that you feel as if you understand him even though you don't speak Italian.

Officially, Premier Alcide De Gasperi runs Italy; actually, however, President De Nicola is a quiet backstage tower of strength. Having suffered a lot for democracy, he doesn't want to see Italy lose its big chance to make democracy live.

And last year, when the Italian peace treaty came up for ratification, President De Nicola quietly called in the leaders of all parties—even including the communists—and told them that Italy should follow a policy of buckling down, accepting her defeat, and working to build herself up from the bottom.

"Therefore," continued the school teacher, "I ask that you take this Bible to the people of Italy and tell them that one who once made parades to be used against them now is teaching her children that the Italians are our friends and that we must all live by the sermon on the mount."

So I gave the Bible from the school teacher in Trenton to the President of Italy. He seemed greatly touched.

"Please tell this school teacher," he said, "that I appreciate her thoughtfulness—I appreciate it from the bottom of my heart. And I accept this Bible on behalf of the people of Italy.

"But we also need help," concluded President De Nicola.

"and that's why we appreciate

so much your aid. Please find a means of thanking the American people for the great help

they have given us."

"Italy has been united only a relatively short time. We also underwent a dictatorship which did us great harm. We came into dictatorship by force and we overthrew it by force. We were also defeated in the war, and we suffered far greater damage than some of our neighbors, who lost all the battles but won the war. And when the Germans retreated, they destroyed everything.

"But in a brief interval we have rebuilt our railroads, replaced our bridges and begun to repair our buildings. We have not only the will to work, but we are working. There is more determination in Italy than ever before. We have hope.

Henry Wallace Offers Himself For President

When Henry Wallace tossed his independent hat into the 1948 ring few political observers were surprised. What must have surprised many who had not heard his recent speeches was the note of impassioned sincerity in the voice that came over the air. Most Americans regard Wallace as a well-meaning but impractical dreamer. He is, in fact, a radical of the familiar religiose type. How far his fierce attack on the Truman Administration is due to thoughtless conviction and how far to resentment at his having been dropped from the cabinet, probably Wallace himself cannot say.

One thing is certain: The third-party movement is a major blow to Harry Truman's prospects in 1948. Henry Wallace will never get within hailing distance of the White House. Probably he will poll fewer than the 4,622,000 votes which Bob LaFollette received in 1924 when he carried only his home state of Wisconsin. But Wallace can and doubtless will play hob with Democratic hopes in several key states.

In the vital state of New York Wallace can count on the greater part of the American Labor Party, which apparently holds the balance of power there. His peculiar ideas have a lot of adherents in California, vigorously marshalled by Robert Kennedy. Thanks to the backing of the Progressive Citizens of America, he can make a showing in the industrial states of Illinois and Michigan and in Washington. Many Farmer-Laborites will go along with him in the plain states. Even if he cannot get his name on the ballot in all of these states, he can deprive the Democrats of essential votes. Wallace has made the decision which recently prompted 51 of the 56 political correspondents in Washington to predict a Republican victory in 1948.

The effect of the Wallace movement on the G.O.P. convention may be only less striking. With Truman's prospects dimmed, the Republican delegates will not be inclined to nominate a popular idol whose Republicanism is an unknown quantity. They will rather be encouraged to choose one of their own, a man who has proved his understanding of and loyalty to Republican principles.

Hopefully for the Republicans, and dismally for the Democrats, the Wallace announcement has cleared the air.

One nice thing about this period of the year is that there are other tunes on the radio besides "Jingle Bells."

President De Nicola Wants Italy To Have Chance To Make Democracy Live; Thanks American People For Help; Cassino Example of Enterprise

Says ROBERT S. ALLEN

ROME, Jan. 4.—(By wireless)—Nine days ago, the first president of the Italian republic signed the new Italian constitution, by which the trappings of Fascism and the folderol of monarchy were finally ended and officially buried. Enrico De Nicola, the man who became president under this new constitution, is a lawyer who had to leave parliament after Mussolini came into power and who has been living quietly in Naples ever since.

I called on President De Nicola two days after the new constitution was signed. You can easily understand why the people of Italy revere him. He has direct, smiling eyes and he talks with such clarity and eloquence that you feel as if you understand him even though you don't speak Italian.

Officially Alcide De Gasperi runs Italy; actually, however, President De Nicola is a quiet backstage tower of strength. Having suffered a lot for democracy, he doesn't want to see Italy lose its big chance to make democracy live. And last year, when the Italian peace treaty came up for ratification, President De Nicola quietly called in the leaders of all parties—even including the communists—and told them that Italy should follow a policy of buckling down, accepting her defeat, and working to build herself up from the bottom.

Public debates over accepting the peace terms, he advised, would only sound a sour note with the rest of the world. They took his advice. Italy has been working ever since.

Typical American Spirit

Calling on President De Nicola, I told him of the tremendous number of Americans of all walks of life who had contributed to the Friendship Train. Typical of their spirit, I said, was a school teacher in Trenton, N. J., Mrs. Laura Maravitz, who came to the train with a dozen of her small students. She was very poor and explained that she had little to give but she handed me a Bible.

"Italy has been united only a relatively short time. We also underwent a dictatorship which did us great harm. We came into dictatorship by force and we overthrew it by force. We were also defeated in the war, and we suffered far greater damage than some of our neighbors, who lost all the battles but won the war. And when the Germans retreated, they destroyed everything."

"But in a brief interval we have rebuilt our railroads, replaced our bridges and begun to repair our buildings. We have not only the will to work, but we are working. There is more determination in Italy than ever before. We have hope."

"Therefore," continued the school teacher, "I ask that you take this Bible to the people of Italy and tell them that the one who once made parachutes faster than anyone else, some of those parachutes may have been used over Sicily. I do not know. I only know that I am now teaching my children from this Bible that we must all live by the sermon on the mouth."

I gave the Bible from the school teacher in Trenton to the President of Italy. He seemed greatly touched.

"Please tell this school teacher," he said, "that I appreciate her thoughtfulness—I appreciate it from the bottom of my heart. And I accept this Bible on behalf of the people of Italy."

Note.—The President especially wanted to be remembered to Charlie Poletti, ex-lieutenant governor of New York and former military governor for Italy. He said that when American troops landed in Naples, Poletti had asked him to be present, but he had declined.

Cassino Rebuilding Miracle

Not far from the war-scarred port of Naples and just a few kilometers from the blue-green Mediterranean is an illustration of the miracles wrought by the Italians in rebuilding their country. On a hill stand the bare, crumpled walls of the most famous monastery in the world—the Abbey of Monte Cassino.

Cassino Abbey was built 529 years after the death of Christ. Four hundred years later the Nazis, having no regard for God or man, converted it into a fortress blocking the advance of the U. S. Third Army. The monastery is now reduced to a gaunt and gaping skeleton.

Standing on a neighboring mountain and looking down over the broad valley, you can see an example of what an atomic war may be like in the future. The 7,000 people of Cassino lived in ancient, hand-built houses at the foot of the mountain. When our bombers came over they weren't always accurate and every time they missed the monastery, Cassino's hillside homes rocketed skyward to start a new avalanche down the mountain. The whole town was leveled.

Today, Cassino is rising from its own ashes. Under the shadow of thousands of crosses which cover the graves of American, British, Australian and Polish soldiers, the people of Cassino are rebuilding their town. They work with machines provided by the UNRRA and with materials left behind by UNRRA.

The people of Cassino are not bitter. They figure that when a little town like theirs gets food from friends, 5,000 miles away, then there is hope. And they hope that never again will there be another war. Cassino knows what war means.

Those who believe that Henry Wallace may be a little punchy, but have no complete confirmation, may be interested to know that Hank used to go in for the curious sport of boomerang throwing.

During his early days in the Cabinet, he'd take himself to the

There is strong support even among Democrats for an arrangement which will assure European recipients more aid in the future if they increase their own production.

Senator Joseph Ball (R), Minnesota, is the leading proponent of this idea. It's simply the old "bon-vouloir" theory that a worker will produce a little more if he knows he will be rewarded.

General Feng

The "Washington Post" says: ". . . Actually Marshal Feng is in the dog house so far as Chiang Kai-shek is concerned, but Chiang was so constrained by Feng's prestige with the people and the armies of China that he gave him a mission abroad and a high-sounding title as the mark of his displeasure. Feng's 'crime' is that he refused to participate in Chinese killing of Chinese. In other words, he was opposed to the civil war, and, in protest, resigned his post as vice generalissimo of the Kuomintang armies under Chiang Kai-shek."

Whoever wrote that editorial should have known better than to prophesy what is going to happen in China. Foreigners have been doing that since the late 1830's when they first began solving China's problems with such few results as are now apparent. It is almost axiomatic that just the opposite of what they say usually happens. When Chiang Kai-shek first began to move out of Canton, all the foreigners at the long bars in Peking and Shanghai, to say nothing of Hankow and Hongkong, were sure that he would fizz out. And their argument was that no Southerners could ever beat Northerners!

Well, 20 years have passed since Chiang established his government first at Hankow and then at Nanjing, and he has stood up against King, and he has stood up against Communists, Northerners, and the Japanese with attitude and power since. It is true that his government is insufficient. What can be expected during 20 years of unending civil war and a war against Japan in which Chiang stood alone for 11 years? Could he have fought such wars and organized a model country besides? Look what a few years of war did to England and to us!

If war could end in China, that country might be able to settle down to some reorganization of its political and economic life. But it is the Communists who have kept China at war since 1927 when they broke into Nanking and ravaged that city as anyone with any memory must recall. What is the use of praising such a man as Feng? He ought to be joined forces, by the coercive power of circumstance, with America's enemy?

WAR VETERANS ARE REINSTATING LIFE INSURANCE

According to William A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland office of the Veterans' Administration, said yesterday that a total of $1,041,000 in lapsed National Service Life Insurance was reinstated here in December by World War II veterans of Allegany County. Burns said that $161,000 of the amount was converted to the permanent basis of NSLI.

Cooperation of service organizations, newspapers, radio and industrial plants was credited with the success of the campaign, according to Burns.

The Celene Corporation of America was singled out by Burns for its efforts during the campaign. The company gave office space to VA representatives and scheduled veteran employees for interviews pertaining to insurance on December 19 from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

A total of 30 veterans at the Celene were interviewed by Burns and $125,000 in NSLI was reinstated that day. The veterans were given permission by the Celene to reinstate their insurance during working hours with no loss of pay while doing so.

Jack Benny

HOLLYWOOD, Jan 4—(INS)—I hope Sol Lesser will pardon me if I had my tongue in my cheek when I heard he had signed Linda Christian for a new picture because of her good work in "Tarzan and the Mermaid."

I'm sure all the publicity Linda has had as the latest flame in Tyrone Power's life has had absolutely nothing to do with it.

No matter what the motive, Linda stays with Lesser to make "Tarzan and the Fountain of Youth," an opus that will be filmed entirely in Florida.

And here's another bit of inside on the "Tarzan" films. There may be a new "Tarzan" soon to take Johnny Weissmuller's place.

Comedian To Try His Stuff On Late Listening Public

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—Robert Q. Lewis, CBS staff comedian who specializes in what he calls "human humor," or something like that, is going to try his stuff on the late listeners from now on for a while. So beginning Monday night he takes over a 15-minute scriptless spot at 11:15 formerly devoted to news and commentary and intends to hold forth there five nights a week. Want to listen if you haven't gone to bed?

The Falcon's adventures, who-dun-it series of MBS which has been in vacation, comes back at 8 in the ex-Scotland Yard time. The new series will have a new voice in the person of Les Tremayne, ex-first nighter. When program was on before it had Tuesdays and Jim Meighan in the lead.

Another new piece, this one for ABC and return the comedy antics of Cliff Arquette to the networks, takes over at 8. It gets the title of Point Sublime, described simply as "comedy drama."

Ted Albee becomes the conductor of the Contented Concert Orchestra on NBC at 10 now that Percy Faith has decided to confine his activities to his CBS Sunday show.

A special Republican national committee broadcast in which the forthcoming campaign and current questions are to be discussed has been scheduled for MBS at 10:30. Among the speakers will be Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Loretta Young and Jos. Cotten are to play "The Farmer's Daughter" for the CBS Radio Theater at 9. Screen Guild, CBS at 10:30, has booked "The Fugitive."

Buoyancy

Robert Louis Stevenson has always been a favorite writer of mine. His greatest story "Treasure Island" is known and loved by almost every schoolboy who loves books of adventure and spirit. But Stevenson's essays, especially those in his book "Across the Plains," were enthusiastically on stage during the baritone's more emotional passages.

"While strolling through the produce market, I passed some chicken crates. Suddenly I heard a voice say, 'Yer mudder wears Army shoes.' The voice seemed to be coming from the crate. I peered in. A Plymouth Rock looked me straight in the eye and croaked, 'Yer mudder takes dope!'"

"Tell me about the act," I said. "How did it open?"

"With a mother-in-law joke," said Morgan.

"Pretty corny," I dead-panned.

"You remind me," snapped the Major, "of the man who went to see a dog play chess and wanted his money back because the poach lost two games in a row."

"My only trouble with the rooster was his tendency to ad lib—and these ad libs were usually uncomplimentary references to somebody's mother. In September I was ready to present Gerald to the world. I called on a booking agent and told him I had an act that would never lay an egg. When I explained the nature of the turn, he was dubious, as is all the breed. But after a few thousand well-chosen words about the talking rooster, he conceded I might have something, and suggested I bring Gerald around the next day for an audition."

"As I left his office, I could see nothing but sunshine and roses. If Trigger and Lassie were worth a hundred a day, what was a rooster worth who could talk back to Louis B. Mayer? I envisioned myself in their actions."

Florida Motorcyclist Claims Speed Record

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 4 (AP)—Buck Brignac of Jacksonville today surpassed the recognized speed record for motorcycles on a half-mile dirt track when he circled the Jacksonville Speedway in 23.6 seconds.

Four timers clocked the cyclist in his fast run and the American Motorcycle Association, which sanctioned the program, will be asked to recognize the mark as a new record. The existing record, 27.83 seconds, was set by Floyd Endre last June at Richmond, Va.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Lloyd (Bud) Hamilton, who died one year ago today, Jan. 5, 1947.

Before our eyes we saw him fade, Growing weaker day by day, Patiently bearing and suffering, Until God took him away. To his help side stood by As helpers, we stood by.

When he saw him die, And drained the cup of bitter grief, The day he died us from, The voice was lost in still.

A place is vacant in our hearts, Which never can be filled.

Sadly missed by Mother & Sister, MRS. DETTA HAMILTON & MRS. WM. RHODES, Westernport, Md.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Lloyd (Bud) Hamilton, who died one year ago today, Jan. 6, 1947.

Before our eyes we saw him fade, Grief, sorrow, pain, suffering, Until God took him away.

To see him slowly leave us,

As he died in the grip of bitter grief,

The day we saw him die,

The dear one to us is gone,

The voice we loved is still,

A place is vacant in our hearts,

Which never can be filled.

Sadly missed by Mother & Sister, MRS.

DETTA HAMILTON & MRS. WM.

RHODES, Westernport, Md.

Local Woman Killed By Engine At Crossing

Victim Identified
By Her Son-In-Law

Four hours after she was struck and killed by a Western Maryland Railway engine last night at 7:50 o'clock, police identified the victim as Miss Blanche Wulford, about 50, 1005 Lafayette Avenue, and termed her death accidental.

J. C. Hopkins, Hagerstown, engineer of the "extra engine" said he saw the woman running down River Avenue in what he termed an effort to beat the train to the crossing and said he blew the whistle several times, but she continued to run.

Miss Wulford ran onto the tracks and Hopkins said it was the last time he saw her. The engine was stopped within 100 feet of the crossing and the mutilated body was discovered close to the tracks about 20 feet from the crossing, according to police.

Body Is Decapitated

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who gave the accidental death verdict, said the body was decapitated, and added several compound fractures were found on the body along with multiple bruises.

Acting County Investigator Harry Holzinger said part of the head was discovered lying on the tracks and a piece of the skull was found about 30 feet from the body.

Police searched the Wiley Ford and South Cumberland sections for four hours in an attempt to identify the victim. Officer James Brown, of the City Police Department, finally took James Hare, 18 Elder Street, to the funeral home where the body had been taken and the body was identified through clothing. Hare said he is a son-in-law of Miss Wulford.

According to Hare the victim was employed as a house keeper by Rex N. Gulbranson at the address given as her residence. He said his mother-in-law has held the job for about 20 years and apparently was en route to a grocery store on the other side of the crossing when she was struck.

C. F. Bealby, special agent for the Western Maryland Railway, said the engine which he identified as No. 917 a light mailer type, was being returned to Cumberland from Hagerstown where it had been overhauled.

Hard Woman Scream

Dr. Deming said he questioned Donald Parks, 23 West Roberts Street, who told authorities that he saw the woman running toward the railroad track as he emerged from the grocery store. Parks told Dr. Deming that he heard the engine whistle blowing as he started out of the store and then saw Miss Wulford running and heard her scream as the train struck her.

Police said Hare was able to identify the body, through clothing she was wearing. Several persons from South Cumberland and Wiley Ford were taken to the funeral home before she was identified, police said.

J. V. Robinson, assistant train master of the Elkins Division, said the engineers observe no speed regulations in the section where the accident occurred because there are warning devices at each crossing. However, officials said the engine could not have been going fast or it could not have been stopped within 100 feet.

Hare said his mother-in-law was divorced but he could not recall the name of her husband. Besides her daughter, Miss Wulford is survived by three brothers, William Wulford, Higginsville, W. Va.; Virgil Wulford, Points, W. Va., and Omar Wulford, Springfield, W. Va.; four sisters, Miss Edith Wulford, and Miss Ida Wulford, both of this city; Mrs. Mami Kilmier, Martinsburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Art Wolfe, Augusta, W. Va.

Assisting in the investigation besides Holzinger and Dr. Deming were Officers Louis Downey and Kenneth W. Morrissey, City Police Department.

January Court Term Opens Today

The January term of Allegany County Circuit Court will open this morning with the grand jury being charged by Chief Justice William A. Huston, but court attaches predict an early adjournment of grand jury with only eight or ten cases on the docket.

The civil docket, however, indicates that a busy term of court will follow the grand jury meeting with approximately 70 civil suits listed on the regular docket for hearing.

Law enforcement authorities said there are no major criminal cases to be presented to the grand jury explaining that paternity and larceny cases constitute the largest part of the criminal docket. One manslaughter case, however, will probably be presented for grand jury action.

This morning the grand jury will receive its charge, select a foreman and then examination of witnesses. Court attaches expect a short session.

So-Called "Mystery Machine" No Mystery At All, Dr. Baer Asserts

According to a Frostburg resident there isn't any "mystery" attached to the so-called "mystery machine," for sale in an Army surplus store in Dallas, Texas, an Associated Press wirephoto picture of which appeared on the front page of the Sunday Times yesterday, as well as in other newspapers throughout the United States.

Dr. Adam Baer, Frostburg chiropractor, called the NEWS yesterday afternoon and said "there isn't any mystery about that machine at all. I can tell you what it is" and he did so. He asserted the machine was first manufactured about 1915 and that he had owned one for the last 12 years.

The machine is a "McIntosh Polysine Generator," according to Dr. Baer, and is used for the treatment of neuritis or muscle nerve paralysis. It was made by the McIntosh Electrical and Supply Company, of Chicago, the chiropractor said.

Dr. Baer said he purchased the machine from Mrs. Irving Wertz, widow of a former mayor of Hagers-

W. J. Elvin Is Named Celanese Plant Engineer

Came Here From England In 1924

Promotion of W. James Elvin, Frostburg, to the position of plant engineer at the Celanese Corporation of America's Amcelle plant here, effective Jan. 1, was announced last night by Fred T. Small, plant manager.

Elvin, who came to this country in 1924 when the Amcelle plant was in its infancy, succeeds Col. Richard Penfield, who was called into service during the war and did not return to the Celanese plant.

In announcing the appointment of Elvin, Small said he will have two assistants, Arthur Bright, Dingle, who has acted as plant engineer prior to the appointment, and R. Archer, Rome, Ga., who will assume his duties today.

A native of England, Elvin came to America and joined the Celanese staff here in 1924, after serving with the British Celanese from 1918 until his departure for America.

Before joining the British Celanese staff, he was employed in His Majesty's Factory at Brittnia, Scotland, as an explosives engineer.

In 1926 Elvin went to the Celanese Canadian plant along with C. F. Beran, then consulting engineer for the corporation to aid in the formation of the plant. He returned here in 1930 and was assigned to the Textile and Research Development of the local plant as an engineer.

Elvin remained in the research department until 1947 when he was transferred to the chief engineer's office. The new assignment places him in charge of all engineering departments at the local plant.

Small said Col. Penfield was called into the service during the war and for a time was assigned to Edgewood Arsenal, Md., where he worked in government engineering. His position was not filled and Bright acted as head of the department until Elvin's appointment which was announced to plant officials last week.

Cast Announced For A.D.K. Play At Allegany

Rehearsals, which will be limited to four weeks, will begin tomorrow at Allegany High School, under the direction of Harold C. Wickard, for the school's Alpha Delta Kappa project of presenting Maxwell Anderson's stage hit, "Joan of Lorraine," here on February 5 and 6 at the Allegany high auditorium.

It was learned here over the weekend that two days after Wickard obtained production rights on the play, in which Ingrid Bergman scored her most notable stage triumph, the show was withdrawn from amateur presentation. The only exception, Wickard said, was granted to him.

The coveted role of Joan will be played by Barberie Sue Mansfield, Richard Jamison will play the male lead of the Inquisitor while Evertine Mitchell will portray Aurora. As "Joan of Lorraine" is a play within a play, the characters have dual names. The complete cast with the two names for each is as follows:

In a statement following his confirmation of reports that he would be a candidate for Mayor, Mr. Eves said:

"At the suggestion of a number of my fellow citizens, I am placing my name before the voters as a candidate for the office of Mayor of the City of Cumberland. Before deciding to take this step, advice was sought from a cross section of people sincerely interested in the welfare and advancement of our city through their connection with industry, labor, business, finance, and the professions, and I have been encouraged by their enthusiastic approval. They feel that I am qualified to assume the responsibility incident to becoming chief executive of the second city of Maryland because of the nature of my previous experience which includes working at my trade and successfully filling supervisory or executive positions requiring a working knowledge of machinery, accounting, engineering and labor relations. They feel that my past active participation in civic affairs and movements devoted to the improvement of our community will help me in approaching municipal problems. Lack of previous political experience may, in a non-partisan municipal government, be advantageous rather than detrimental.

"Campaign history is full of examples of the futility of making a campaign on issues that can only be decided in lawful assembly of the body of men whose composition is unknown until the last ballot is counted. However, there is one definite promise which I can make and that is to work harmoniously with my mayor to the best of my ability and to work harmoniously with my relatives."

The picture in the Sunday Times shows Mrs. Dorothy Ingram examining the machine at the Dallas store. According to the Associated Press the store owner, Chester Klingman, says he doesn't know what it is for and that neither does Army Medical Corps, which paid $900 for it, or the manufacturer. The Dallas store owner will sell it for $45.

Dr. Baer said he bought $200 and he did it for $25, adding that he is of the opinion some sold the machine as identical.

Roy W. Eves To Be Candidate In Mayoralty Race Announcement Brings Numerous Calls

Numerous telephone calls were received yesterday by Roy W. Eves, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge Shop, following announcement that he will be a candidate for Mayor of Cumberland in the March municipal primary election.

He stated that he is "particularly interested" in the study of the proposed new charter to be made by a specially appointed committee of local residents.

Regarding two bills which are due for a referendum vote in March, Mr. Eves said those decisions are up to the voters and will not be a part of his campaign.

One bill would authorize a bond issue up to $150,000 for playgrounds and recreation in Cumberland, while the other would increase the mayor's salary to $3,600 and that of the councilmen to $2,400.

"I am a candidate for mayor to help serve the community, and not for the salary," Mr. Eves told the News last night.

With regard to established commissions, such as the Municipal Airport Commission and the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, Mr. Eves said he would continue such groups and to consider their recommendations, if he is elected mayor.

Law enforcement authorities said there are no major criminal cases to be presented to the grand jury explaining that paternity and larceny cases constitute the largest part of the criminal docket. One manslaughter case, however, will probably be presented for grand jury action.

This morning the grand jury will receive its charge, select a foreman and then examination of witnesses. Court attaches expect a short session.

So-Called "Mystery Machine" No Mystery At All, Dr. Baer Asserts

According to a Frostburg resident there isn't any "mystery" attached to the so-called "mystery machine," for sale in an Army surplus store in Dallas, Texas, an Associated Press wirephoto picture of which appeared on the front page of the Sunday Times yesterday, as well as in other newspapers throughout the United States.

Dr. Adam Baer, Frostburg chiropractor, called the NEWS yesterday afternoon and said "there isn't any mystery about that machine at all. I can tell you what it is," and he did so. He asserted the machine was first manufactured about 1915 and that he had owned one for the last 12 years.

The picture in the Sunday Times shows Mrs. Dorothy Ingram examining the machine at the Dallas store. According to the Associated Press the store owner, Chester Klingman, says he doesn't know what it is for and that neither does Any Medical Corps which paid $900 for it, or the manufacturer. The Dallas store owner will sell it for $45.

Dr. Baer said he paid $25 for the one he bought 12 years ago and will sell it for $25, adding that he is of the opinion someone sold the government some "old equipment."

Roy W. Eves To Be Candidate In Mayoralty Race

Announcement Brings Numerous Calls

Numerous telephone calls were received yesterday by Roy W. Eves, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge Shop, following announcement that he will be a candidate for Mayor of Cumberland in the March municipal primary election.

He stated that he is "particularly interested" in the study of the proposed new charter to be made by a specially appointed committee of local residents.

Regarding two bills which are due for a referendum vote in March, Mr. Eves said those decisions are up to the voters and will not be a part of his campaign.

One bill would authorize a bond issue up to $150,000 for playgrounds and recreation in Cumberland, while the other would increase the mayor's salary to $3,600 and that of the councilmen to $2,400.

"I am a candidate for mayor to help serve the community, and not for the salary," Mr. Eves told the News last night.

With regard to established commissions, such as the Municipal Airport Commission and the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, Mr. Eves said he would expect to continue such groups and to consider their recommendations, if he is elected mayor.

A resident of Maryland for 21 years and in his 18th year as a citizen of Cumberland, Mr. Eves has had 34 years service with the B. & O., starting as an electrician at the Chillicothe, Ohio, shops. He was born in Evansville, Ind., March 11, 1886 and will be 62 years old the week before the next municipal election. He and Mrs. Eves reside at 103 Washington street. Their only child, Elizabeth, is with the Washington Department in Washington.

Shop Employment Grows

When Mr. Eves came to Cumberland in October 1930 as superintendent of the Bolt and Forge Shop there were approximately 100 men employed. This number was increased to a peak of 535 by 1945.

Chairman of the advisory board of the Salvation Army, he is a past president of the Cumberland Rotary Club and served several years as chairman of the Allegany County Welfare Board. He is a director of the B. & O.R.R.Y.M.C.A. and treasurer of Central "Y"; an executive committee man of the American Red Cross; member of the Cumberland Community Chest executive committee; a director of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; serves on the board of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, and is a member of the Engineering Club of Cumberland.

Urged By Many To Run

In a statement following his confirmation of reports that he would be a candidate for Mayor, Mr. Eves said:

"At the suggestion of a number of my fellow citizens, I am placing my name before the voters as a candidate for the office of Mayor of the City of Cumberland. Before deciding to take this step, advice was sought from a cross section of people sincerely interested in the welfare and advancement of our city through their connection with industry, labor, business, finance, and the professions, and I have been encouraged by their enthusiastic approval. They feel that I am qualified to assume the responsibility incident to becoming chief executive of the second city of Maryland because of the nature of my previous experience which includes working at my trade and successfully filling supervisory or executive positions requiring a working knowledge of machinery, accounting, engineering and labor relations. They feel that my past active participation in civic affairs and movements devoted to the improvement of our community will help me in approaching municipal problems. Lack of previous political experience may, in a non-partisan municipal government, be advantageous rather than detrimental.

"Campaign history is full of examples of the futility of making a campaign on issues that can only be decided in lawful assembly of the body of men whose composition is unknown until the last ballot is counted. However, there is one definite promise which I can make and that is to perform the duties of mayor to the best of my ability and to work harmoniously with whatever

Timber Strike Has Not Yet Affected Mines In Area, Watkins Reports

Lumbermen Plan Meeting Tomorrow

No reports have been received to date of any mines closing in Allegany or Garrett Counties because of a strike called Saturday of an estimated 12,000 timbermen and sawmill workers who provide props for coal mines in the tri-state area.

David Watkins, international representative here for the United Mine Workers of America, said that undoubtedly the mines in this area will run short of props "in a little while" if the strike continues, however, because only small backlog are maintained.

Meanwhile, Thomas P. McGauley, Uniontown, Pa., regional director of the striking United Construction Workers, reported the closing of one mine in that area for lack of mine timbers.

One bill would authorize a bond issue up to $150,000 for playgrounds and recreation in Cumberland, while the other would increase the mayor's salary to $3,600 and that of the councilmen to $2,400.
